Wilderness Engineers

Maintaining a large camp facility is a difficult endeavor. Teamwork and group initiative is essential.

The buildings, grounds and equipment of Ingersoll Scout Reservation are essential program tools. Proper and consistent maintenance is important to the success of programs and services to our youth scouts. Well kept facilities and equipment assist in building good camp morale and developing respect for the property. Enlisting cooperation from staff, campers and adult volunteers is easier with a well-maintained property.

In regard to public relations, the community, leaders, parents and neighbors are impressed by attractive facilities. Additionally, dollars saved through preventative maintenance will help ensure the investment of funds required to meet the expanding needs of Ingersoll Scout Reservation. Most importantly, camp program is improved when equipment and facilities are available and in proper condition.

The Jayhawk Area Council has a great group of Scouters who have indicated their willingness to use their talents, interests and equipment to help ensure that the best possible maintenance program is developed. We have plenty of room for more adult volunteers to be a part of the maintenance team. Whatever you can do to help will be greatly appreciated.
